MULTIPLE CHOICE
If music is your fancy, then Concerts Impromptu will appease your ears. This little pet from the Cultural Office is two hours of Y talent. The program is always good and the atmosphere is casual. It's a come or go or perform as you please. In the Memorial Lounge the rug is big and there is always room for one more.

For more of the sitting crowd, there are the movies. Billed for the humorous and mature audiences is a triple feature: The Three Stooges, Laurel and Hardy and The Keystone Cops. (College students need not be accompanied by parents) For the rest of the movie-goers, the full length film "Arabesque" will also be shown.

In the Games Center—anything goes. Moonlight bowling (one line per person) will be one of the features. The handicap (?) here is that all of the lights are out except for the light above the pins. There are the usual games of ping pong and shuffle board and table games but there are some others that of less common nature to be checked out. It would be quite possible to be quite contented all evening in just the Games Center.

Ben E. Lewis, Executive Vice President of BYU, will deliver today's Devotional address at 10 a.m. in the De Jong Concert Hall of the Harris Fine Arts Center.

President Lewis was appointed to his current post in January, 1969. His responsibilities include physical plant, housing, food services, farms, laundry, creamery and purchasing, mail, stores and receiving, property management, motion picture production, press, photo studio, and audio visual services.

He is also President of the East Sharon Stake of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. Other church positions President Lewis has held include missionary to the northern states, 1934-36; missionary twice in Washington, D.C.; member of the Washington Ward bishopric, 1947-51; High Councilman in the Washington Stake, 1951-52; high councilman of the Sharon and East Sharon Stakes.

Active in civic affairs, President Lewis is a member of the Provo City Planning Commission. He serves on the boards of the Hotel Utah, Utah Valley Hospital, Provo Kiwanis Club, Desert Book Company, Taylor's, Inc. and is a member of the advisory committee of Walker Bank and Trust Co.

President Lewis graduated from BYU in 1940, and received an M.S. in public administration from Denver University in 1942.

DANCE
For the super-energetics the evening can be polished off at a rock dance in the Ballroom. Providing the music for the dance will be a rock group that's popular and highly rated around the Y. If participating in such a dance frolic is not your style it may be worth the time just to go and gather data for your next report in that psych class. For the jet set though, it will rock.

ONE TICKET
One of the best features of the whole evening is that all of the activities are covered under one ticket, the cost of which is 50 cents cheap. Couples as well as stages may attend.

Rules for the evening include BYU dress standards. Students are reminded that this means no tennis shoes, bare feet, levis, mini skirts, or t-shirts.

All students are invited to give the books a chance to cool off and for one night just Fun and Frolic.

PRES. BEN E. LEWIS
... will address today's Devotional assembly.

FUN, FUN, FUN
...No matter what shape your GPA is in, there will be nothing better for students to do Saturday than make the Fun and Frolic Scene in the Ernest L. Wilkinson Center.

Library Acquires 2,000 Victorian Volumes

BYU has purchased a unique collection of nearly 2,000 volumes of literature covering almost every phase of life during the long reign of England's Queen Victoria, 1837-1901.

The Victorian collection, obtained from San Francisco antiquarian book dealer David Magee, contains many rare first editions, author's presentation copies, and unopened and mint condition volumes.

Gordon N. Ray, recognized as the world's leading authority on Victorian literature, described the collection as being the most substantial and important to be assembled by a book dealer in many years.

"It will be a long time, I suspect, before we look upon its like again, and this suspicion renders the more poignant the news that the collection has been sold en bloc to Brigham Young University. No doubt this institution is to be congratulated on its enterprise and judgment," Ray commented.

Ray was expressing the inevitable disappointment felt by many private book collectors when a large library buys up a complete collection.

Mr. Magee, a former president of the Antiquarian Book Association of America, put together the Victorian collection during five years of extensive travel. He offered BYU first refusal because he feels that growing libraries should have a fair chance alongside the bigger and longer-established institutions.

Although still packed away in the storage area of the J. Reuben Clark Jr. Library, BYU's new collection contains books, plays, speeches, essays, poems, ballads, printers' proofs and private letters from many famous writers during Britain's "Golden Age" of literature.

Highlighting the collection are first editions of Thomas Hardy's set of novels and poems, FitzGerald's Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam, nearly all the works of Oscar Wilde, and no less than five copies of Dickens' work bearing presentation inscriptions autographed by the author.

Ohio Solon Says U.S. Is 'Militaristic'

By Carl P. Leubsdorf
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—William B. Saxbe is a 52-year-old freshman senator from Ohio with impeccable Republican credentials who says the United States has become "a militaristic nation" and that its priorities are dangerously out of balance.

While he is not alone among GOP freshmen in feeling this way, he was the only Republican in Congress who signed a recent report charging the nation is becoming a "national security state" and that "the most urgent challenge confronting Congress today is to reassert control over the military bureaucracy and the policy decisions it has pre-empted."

He is one of the sponsors of the latest in a series of congressional study groups that has sprung up this year, the Congressional Conference on the Planning of New Priorities that takes place here today and Saturday.

Saxbe, who sits in the seat once held by "Mr. Republican," Robert A. Taft, sees himself as monitoring that his state, once predominantly rural, is now urban.

"In campaigning last year," the Ohio Republican said in an interview, "I found that the people who are keenly interested in political activity are a younger group and a group that hasn't any strong party allegiance."

BEAUTIFUL UTAH LAKE STATE PARK . . .

... as it appears today after nearly two years of state control. The collection of a $1 fee from daily visitors and a $7 fee from yearly visitors has so far produced a toll booth and log rails along the roadside. Yet to come: sandy beaches and recreational improvements.

"I want the Republican party to be responsive to them," he continued, noting that several of his fellow freshmen—Marlow Cook of Kentucky, Richard Schickel of Pennsylvania, Charles McC. Mathias Jr. of Maryland—also feel as he does that the nation has become too militaristic.

It's a point of view that brings them into some conflict with Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen and other senior Republicans in the Senate.

"The four of us who were in close touch with the electorate last year feel certain things that people who haven't run in some time, or who run in more rural states, haven't found," Saxbe said.

"What we're saying," he went on, "is that the tail is wagging the dog. We have always said to the military: you defend us at any cost."

"By and large," he continued, "they have done it. They weren't hired to be the economists or make value judgments on priorities, but it has gotten out of control."

"What I'm concerned about is that we settle down to the hard job of living in peace in a nuclear world. If we can't turn our attention to our own problems, the end result will be total destruction."

Senator Supports Draft changes

Dear Students,

I appreciate receiving the signed petitions which attest to the widespread interest in a volunteer army. I agree with the desirability of an all volunteer armed force and just as soon as we can meet our manpower needs voluntarily, at attainable cost, I hope that such a system can be implemented. I am cosponsoring a bill introduced by Senator Kennedy which calls for a thorough public study of all aspects of a volunteer army. It requires the President to conduct a six-month study of the costs and feasibility of a voluntary system of enlistments and he would have to report to the Congress on his findings and recommendations. Cost estimates for a volunteer army now range from four to seventeen billion a year. Such a study would give us a clear idea of what the cost would be.

Until we can implement a volunteer army, there are some inequities in the draft system which should be changed at once. The draft bill I am cosponsoring requires that 19-year-olds be drafted first and that the draftees be chosen by random selection. It permits students to postpone their service during the course of a bona fide study, but does not permit the postponement to evolve into an exemption. A young man would be in the prime selection group for longer than a total of twelve months. The bill authorizes judicial review of questions of law regarding classification proceeding and it gives registrants the right to appear personally in draft board proceedings affecting them and to be represented by counsel. It limits the term of the Director of the Selective Service to six years.

I am glad to note that President Nixon has now sent a Message to Congress on the draft. Nearly 40% of the Administration's goals for draft reform are contained in the bill I am cosponsoring. In addition, I have suggested that I allow other nonmilitary government service, such as at Peace Corps, VISTA or Teach for America, to be counted reasonably toward improvement in the draft or as bill providing for a volunteer army.

Sincerely,

Frank E. Mo
United States Senator

Editor's Note: Senator Moss commenting on a petition which was circulated on campus last semester. This petition expressed support for the President's Vietnam program calling for a volunteer army. The petition and signatures were then sent to Utah's Senators and Representatives.

I see that you're still dating that returned lady missionary

$79,432 Grant Awarded Y For Community School Work

"THE TAMING OF THE SHREW"

...one of Shakespeare's earliest comedies, will be staged by the YU Drama Dept. in the Pardoe Drama Theater, Wednesday through Saturday. Above, Katherine (Sydney Samuelson) takes a bit of a bite, much to the discomfort of Petruccio (Neal Barth). Dr. Harold I. Hansen is the director.

Junior Proficiency Exam Scheduled For Saturday

The Junior English Proficiency Examination will be given Saturday in the Joseph Smith Auditorium. Students whose last names begin with A through J will be tested at 7 a.m. Those with names beginning with K through Z will be tested at 10 a.m. According to Dr. George Jensen of the English Dept., the examination is a duration requirement which will be completed during the junior year. Only students who have completed 60 semester hours and the freshman composition requirements are eligible to take the exam.

Registration for the test will begin 30 minutes before exam time. Admission will be by student activity card, with photo attached.

Student should bring a soft lead pencil for the objective portion of the test and a pen for the essay, Dr. Bennion stated. All other testing materials will be furnished.

Each student will be required to write an essay on a subject given him by the examiner, in addition to completing multiple choice objective questions about English usage, punctuation, style, tone, organization, etc.

Dr. Bennion indicated that foreign students who are planning to graduate are allowed to take the Foreign Student English Language Test instead of the Junior English Proficiency Examination.

The Mott Foundation of Flint, Mich., has awarded a grant of $79,432 to BYU, it was announced last Thursday by President Ernest L. Wilkinson.

The grant is an addition to the $65,000 initial amount to further the development of the Regional Community School Program established last July.

Dr. Israel Heaton, professor of recreation education at BYU, is director of the program. He has studied the Mott Program in Flint on several occasions.

Dr. Heaton explained that the community school idea is more than an adult education program. It considers the schools as continuously available centers from early morning until late evening, six days a week, and 52 weeks a year for whatever purpose the community needs.

Since July the BYU-centered program has opened four school districts to community school programs—Provo, Ogden, Weber, and Salt Lake City, with from two to ten schools in each district available for activities. BYU has supplied each of them with seed money up to $5,000 from the Mott grant which is then matched and augmented by the local districts.

Dr. Heaton said he has received requests for additional programs in Box Elder, Davis and Granite Districts and has looked from school districts in California and Idaho.

In addition to matching the funds, the local districts must also provide a full-time director trained in the Mott Foundation Leadership Training Program. BYU has made plans to establish such a training program starting with the 1969 autumn semester, with an initial quota of 12 trainees.

Most of the time of the BYU regional office has been spent in meeting with community leaders in Colorado, Utah, California and Washington in an effort to motivate schools to begin community programs, Dr. Heaton said.

"One of the most encouraging signs is the burgeoning of programs all over the state in which schools use volunteer and part-time leadership on their own, even though they cannot afford a full-time director," he commented.

Recreation programs are usually the first to appear, with activities for both youth and adults during the evenings and on Saturdays when the school is not in use. Later appear adult education classes such as high school completion courses, enrichment classes in mathematics, English and science for youth, then crafts classes for adults.

Possibilities also include family counseling programs, activities for senior citizens, aid for school dropouts, challenges for the gifted students, opening of neighborhood libraries, orchestras, neighborhood discussion groups to solve local problems of delinquency, crime, health, cleanup, prejudice, etc.

The Mott Foundation was established in 1926 by Charles Stewart Mott, dean of the directors of General Motors Corp.

Fishing Is Good!

By Bruno Vassel III
Universe Sportswriter

There are very few places in the United States where the average fisherman can spend a few hours dunking worms or trolling a lure, and come home with a limit of two to four pound trout, consistently. However Strawberry Reservoir is one such place.

Constructed in 1912, Strawberry was known as the place to catch lunker trout until the 1940's when rough fish (trash fish), used for bait, took over the reservoir. A study conducted between 1947 and 1958 showed that it took five hours of fishing for every trout caught. Chubs, suckers, carp and shiners became the password at Strawberry.

On October 3, 1961, over 30 tons of rotenone fish toxicant were spread by plane over the lake. Within hours thousands of dead fish began to line its banks. Before the poisoning of the fish took place, trout traps and seins were used to trap some 13,000 of the game fish, which were later used in part to restock the reservoir.

Although there were some protests by fishermen and humanitarians, most people agreed that rotenone was the answer—especially after seeing the small per cent of trout compared to the rough fish which the reservoir actually contained.

Unlike many lakes and reservoirs, Strawberry was endowed with just the right ingredients in the form of food, oxygen content and water temperatures to produce very rapid growth in its fish population. The Utah Fish and Game has done an excellent job restocking the lake with rainbow, cutthroat, brook and brown trout, along with some kokanee. Last week one million rainbow fingerlings, three to five and a half inches long, and one million cutthroat fry, one and a half to two inches long were stocked in the reservoir.

Some of the best places to fish Strawberry are the East Portal Bay, Clark's Boat Camp, The Knolls and Frank Maden's Boat Camp. Although some good catches are still being taken from the bank, Strawberry is really at its best when fished from a boat. Boats can be rented at the lake.

Water Claims Football Star

Ken Call, a two-year letterman in football, drowned May 28 in the Murdock Diversion Dam Reservoir in Provo Canyon.

Ken, a defensive halfback last fall, was swimming with a companion when an undertow apparently took him to his death.

He had played tailback as a sophomore before moving into the defensive backfield for the Cougars last fall. He was moved again this spring to the offensive team as a flanker and was being counted on at that position for the up-coming season.

Illinois Reacts To Clifford

Whatever its purpose, North Vietnam displayed interest in Clark M. Clifford's visit for a U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam.

It repeatedly broadcast the arrival of the former U.S. secretary of defense that all combat troops, about 100,000, be withdrawn within the next month.

It took the view that the proposal indicated an opposition to the war. It was broadcast evidently was before President Nixon's visit of Thursday night that administration might even beat Clifford timetable.

Nonetheless, the Hanoi treatment was questionable and North Vietnam regarded the Clifford visit as worthy of serious concern.

The Paris peace talks this week the United States asked North Vietnam several times whether it was willing to withdraw its forces from the South. Hanoi's representative side-stepped an answer.

Thailand reacted with a show of anger and South Korea adopted an admonitory tone.

Stutterers Needed

Stuttering behavior is currently being investigated by the Communicative Disorders Area of the Speech and Dramatic Arts Department.

Susan Walker, a graduate student, is conducting the study. She stated that the purpose of the study is to determine if noxious auditory stimuli elicits an increased heart rate (EKG) in stutterers as opposed to non-stutterers.

Twenty subjects having a stuttering problem are needed to complete the research. Those interested in participating may sign in at F484 Harris Fine Arts Center, of call BYU ext. 2318 before 5 p.m. or 374-9088 after 5 p.m.

COME TO A READING DYNAMICS FREE DEMONSTRATION AND FIND OUT HOW.

SEE FREE DEMONSTRATION

PROVO

TUESDAY - THURSDAY

June 24 - 26

5 and 8 p.m.

290 North University

- You will see a Reading Dynamics graduate read at amazing speeds from a book he has never seen before and then tell in detail what he has read.
- You will see a documented film that includes actual interviews with Washington Senators who have taken the course.
- You will learn how we can help you to faster reading, with improved comprehension and greater recall.

Each demonstration lasts 1 hour and 15 minutes.

You have to see it to believe it.

When you read word by word or phrase by phrase, you can never really read fast. But when you train your eye to absorb chunks of text at a glance, you suddenly discover a whole new world.

Money Back Guarantee

We guarantee to increase the reading efficiency of each student AT LEAST 3 times. We will refund the entire tuition to any student who, after completing minimum class and study requirement, does not at least triple his reading efficiency as measured by our beginning and ending tests. Reading efficiency combines rates AND comprehension, not speed alone.

Here's an illustration of what happens: When you drive a car, you don't consciously look at everything on the road. You take in the whole scene at a glance and your mind instantly sorts out what your eye sees.

So why do we read slowly?

We're trained to hear every word we read, and see each word in sequence. Until recently, nobody believed it could be done any other way. It took Evelyn Wood almost twenty years of study to evolve a new reading technique that allows you to read at unusually high rates with no sacrifice of comprehension or reading enjoyment.

There's no trick. No mystery. No mechanical paces. No skimming.

Comprehension is stressed.

Dynamic reading is understood reading. "Skipping words is dangerous," says Mrs. Wood. "You may skip a word that changes the whole meaning of the sentence." Conventional courses aspire to 450-600 words per minute. Most Reading Dynamics graduates read between 1,500 and 3,000 words per minute and many go even higher. Ask any of the more than 400,000 graduates who have learned the advantages of dynamic reading.
